

Woah, Canada!

A North American Country

Targets

Historiography

- Seymour Martin Lipset (1989) – small but significant differences in law and loyalty to UK. CAN tries to separate identity
- James Bryce (1921) – CAN more traditional due to monarchy roots; national character different
- W.L. Morton (1961) – CAN didn't have revolution → allegiance achieved independence
- Arthur Schlesinger – multi-culturalism prevents development of national identity

- Louis Harty – “Founding Fragments Theory” – Both come from EUR history, but British CAN has “Tory touch” → more conservative.
- Harold Innis/Donald Creighton – Laurentian Thesis – CAN stretched Westward from St. Lawrence → developed own “economic nationalism”
- J.M.S. Careless – “limited identities” of provincialism and multiculturalism → no national identity
- PM Brian Mulroney (1992) – CAN becoming more and more American

Values Differences

- Gov't – Confederation w/ more provincial authority
- Religion – Anglican (British) or Catholic (French) w/ church and state often blurred
- Economics – States are a partner to federal gov; Public enterprise system → planned economy

- Law – 1867’s “Peace, Order, & Good Government” → stressed ordered society and collective resp.
- Canada Act – Protects minority rights & provinces can “opt out” of constitutional provisions
- Low crime rates; Stricter gun control
- Deep respect for law → less likely to protest

If only
SC was in Canada!

- Elitism – More structured class system; education
- Immigration – Mosaic vs. Melting Pot
 - less pressure for immigrants to assimilate
 - Multi-Culturalism as law (1971)
 - Bibby – “unassembled mosaic” rights valued over collective good → coexistence is national goal
- Provincial Autonomy? – Grown since 1867.
Changed since founder’s intent (strong provinces)

- Social Programs – Socialist welfare state
 - Paid out of tax revenue
 - Social security, welfare, healthcare provided with more extensive coverage
 - Of course, high taxes. Fits w/CAN social mentality
- Development – About 2-4 decades behind US

Side-by-Side: No Comparison

Canada U.S.

Canada and the U.S. used to be twins on public-health measurements. Here's how it looks after 35 years of Canadian universal health care.
